Hey there!

I'm Konrad and I've spent around 10 years working in the devtooling space tying together developer marketing and technical product marketing efforts, driving inbound and outbound growth for companies like Oxla (acq. by Redpanda), Okta, Auth0 (acq. by Okta) , GitHub (acq. by Microsoft), AngelHack or Estimote.

I can say that I've spent all my career in devtools. Been building, marketing them and leading all sorts of efforts, scaling developer communities from hundreds to tens of thousands of devs.

I started my career by pioneering the European hackathon and developer ecosystem scene (AGHacks), went through my software engineering stage of life to find out that I'm quite an effective all around person that thrives at the intersection of engineering and technical product marketing.

Being passionate about innovation and developer products craftsmanship I'm looking for ventures that deeply understand how product, developer marketing, devrel and engineering can be tied together to drive growth and revenue.
