Hey there!

I'm Konrad and I've spent almost 10 years working with tech products and various developer ecosystems. Started my career in tech by organizing the biggest student hackathon in Europe which later on led me to my first software engineering job. After that, by combining my passion for software products and developers I dived into the developer relations world and went from community engineering to leading a team of community engineers. All my career till now allowed me to understand how different companies work and succeed starting from startups like Estimote through mid-size companies like Auth0, finishing with bigger corporations like Okta.

I think I've already discovered my core strengths which is primarily delivering value through projects and program management by also leading people through my leadership inner nature. I really enjoy delivering value by combining those two aspects!

I'm super passionate about innovation and bringing in my leadership and management skills in order to create more valuable and useful products. Always doing my best to spark creative and critical thinking in others and also to empower my team and company I work for as much as I can. Let's work together to bring some added value for everyone!

Hope to collaborate with you soon!

Konrad
